Priority Areas 1	Transport Infrastructure / Improvement of customs capacity
Development issues 1  Transport Infrastructure, Improvement of customs capacity	【Background and Current situation】 Burundi is located at the intersection of the Eastern African Region and plays an important role for the regional trade. However, the economic growth is hindered by the insufficiency and inefficiency of port facilities, which cover more than half of imports and exports in Burundi, as well as the inefficient customs system.					【Strategy】 Japan supports the strengthening of the port facilities and customs systems in order to facilitate the regional trade.

Priority Areas 2	Assistance for Agricultural Development
Development Issues 2  Agricultural Development	【Background and Current situation】 Since the agricultural lands and infrastructure have been seriously damaged because of the years of civil war, while most of cultivated lands depend mainly on the rainwater, the agricultural productivity in Burundi is remarkably low. In Burundi, where the agriculture accounts around 35% of GDP (World Bank, 2011) and more than 90% of the labor force are engaged in the agriculture, improvement of the agricultural productivity is crucial. As the recent inflow of large-number of returnees and the increase of population has aggravated the problem of land fragmentation, the challenge is of urgent need.					【Strategy】 Japan supports the promotion of improved farming practices in order to improve the productivity in the devastated lands.

Especially, in the field of maternal and child health, Burundi has one of the highest rate on infant mortality (56 on 1,000 persons) and on that of under-5 (96 on 1,000 persons) in sub Saharan African countries, and therefore, the assistance for reinforcement of the function of medical institutions is one of the priority.					【Strategy】 In order for Burundians to be equally assured of the basic living conditions, Japan supports the amelioration of administration services for the achievement of social development. Japan will continue its assistance in the field of maternal and child health through the given program to the improvement of basic social service. In the field of public health, Japan supports the attempt to ameliorate the quality of service in maternal and child health in particular, and to contribute to the reinforcement of medical infrastructure and equipment in accordance with the Vision Burundi 2025 as well as the Japan's global health policy.
